This hash was brought to you by the word Well, slurry to be precise!

Despite Halloween being the week before, as Windy climbed on his tractor he promised that there may well be tricks or treats in store. How intriguing...

Strict instructions were given to go ROUND the ploughed field so off we all went (Apart from Racey - the hare, and Sausage Pincher who outrageously short-cutted ACROSS the field), we arrived at RG. The longs turned up after the shorts with the exception of Omen and Scrotey who had apparently taken themselves off on their own hash enjoying the countryside by night.

Waiting with anticipation, hearing the noise of fireworks from all around but unable to see any, we were then astounded with a fireworks display (at least three rockets were counted) that clearly will be in competition to win the fireworks competition in Plymouth next year. Fortunately, Windy managed not to set fire to himself in the process.

What an enjoyable plenty of checks, a Whilst passing the remarked "All my shit And as we all know Whilst this was going across a field which with knee deep slurry. Well laid... I suspect windy referred to.

hash, so many hares, beautiful starry evening. sewage works Well Laid passes through there". there is plenty of it... on the Longs were hashing had been freshly covered Maybe this was also C/O this may be the 'Trick'

It transpires that Stopcock needs to tone down his manliness. All the shorts and some of the longs managed to successfully go through the rather unstable kissing gate, Not stopcock, why go through the gate when you can push it down and go over it! Being the responsible person he is, in response to this situation he left it and ran off leaving it to the willing band of merry men - Dodo, Ernie, Windy and Wobbly to repair the destroyed gate. Whether it still remains standing might be another matter....

In the pub we were crammed into the bar, personal space was invaded with lots of inadvertent (allegedly) groping whilst trying to manoeuvre. Naughty boy was being a clumsy boy. Sacrilege indeed as he spilt his beer and then minutes later he threw his chips on the floor. 10 second rule - scraped up and back into their plate, fortunately Ruby was at the other side of the bar at the time otherwise im confident she would have helped clear them up.

Reports were received of the Dartmoor Runners big adventure to Bodmin Moor where Racey tried her hand at Bog Snorkelling. Wobbly was up to his waist so Racey was lucky to survive.

The absence of the Plympton Tarts was noted – could this have been a strategic move to avoid having to clean the grog bucket....

Warning - Amidst the Brexit negotiations, the TVH3 cobra committee has met and discussed the budget. With consultation the current financial status in line with projected expenses and inflation this brings serious consequences for the future budget. Ok, im talking Sh*t ill get to the point...

Basically, in a nutshell, we need to put the weekly price up from £1 to £2 with effect from 19/11/2018. Unfortunately with reduced hasher numbers and inflation since the last increase many years ago it needs to go up to keep the hash viable in order to still be able to continue as we are with providing trophies and activities such as the heavily subsidised posh frocks etc.

Although the committee understands this may be a controversial decision we would hope that all hashers understand that it has not been made lightly and is essential for the future.

N.B. £2 to be paid per hash in UK sterling money. Unfortunately we are not in a position to accept Euros, any other currency or, particularly at this time of year, chocolate coins!

On the same note could all hares please check the money when its handed in please!

Congratulations to the Argles and Ames's family's for fine performances in the recent OMM and Hurricane for completing the Cornish Marathon.
