Gutter Tor Gut Wrencher! K2 reporting

In the car Smartarse says "I know where the run is!" After two 26 point turns in narrow lanes, poor Luffly was understandably not prepared to believe me any more. We arrived late, just as the hash was starting, so haven't a clue what was said before you all ran off.

Thank you to Penny Farting and Mo for setting the run. The longs seemed to spend most of the time running up and down Gutter Tor, good hill training though. We did set the dogs off, to run in circles and trip up the keenies, but that didn't seem to slow them down. Last seen crossing the Plym and heading off downriver towards Cadover Bridge. Did they all get back safely?

Meanwhile some of the shorts were following the walking route and taking in the scenery. An elderly, frail, retired pensioner berated the military General at the camp and presented him with the pile of rubbish (ration pack waste etc) dropped by his men that she had found on the moor. She got short shrift for complaining, because she had sworn at him - What a bloody cheek eh Gnashers!! Meanwhile Uncle befriended a hasher from Rugby called John - what a strange hash name.

Back at the bucket - I hope nobody drank the shandy from the bowl, it had been flavoured with dirt, gravel and pieces of straw. Please hares, make sure you wash the cups and bucket before the run. Thank you!

No K2 cakes tonight - but the landlady of the Burrator Inn made up for it by selling chocolate muffins and boxed cakes very cheaply for charity. Scrotey, missing his weekly rock buns, was fastest to get his wallet out for sweet treats. This cake money will go to children's cancer charity. Complaints again from Peter Argles and Pimp about lack of home made cakes, nothing for their packed lunches in the week.

There was a defector from Stannary with us, Chris a.k.a. Heer Splitz, who didn't explain why he had been thrown out, but was relieved to be accepted into the superior hash. Welcome to him and Elaine (no name yet).

Evesdropping I heard an earnest conversation "split in side wall, spurts all stuff out, easier to have hole in the bottom." What was going on?? (ask Scrotey and Ram Raider)

Hash Hush, with just one glove finger tonight, introduced virgin Ron Atkinson and announced the birthday of Cabin Boy. Naming tonight was for Sam Short, who says he's been hashing for 2 years - but only once each year I presume. His liking for female clothes and trees led to "Lumber Jill" as his new moniker.

Strange sign in the pub "No children under 16 allowed in the POO bar." Oh yuck!!

Well done, to Grandpa and family for their open garden event last weekend, which raised £1000 for St Luke's Hospice. Must have good influence on high, to have arranged such beautiful weather too.

Also well done to Vron and Pony for travelling from the Lizard to Lands End - not sure how, was it in a horse and cart?

Warning: Don't leave your dog with Ernie. Last weekend whilst dog-sitting he lost the treasured mutt - who didn't reappear for 36 hours! Saves having to take it for a walk, I suppose.

Russ Abbott declined to come to hash tonight - it was his birthday (65th??) and he didn't want a birthday chorus. Next week maybe!!

Future events:

- Wine and Wisdom Quiz night in aid of K2s VSO fund. 28th June at Lamerton Hall at 7pm. Underlay and Can't Remember as question masters. Lots of wine!! Tickets from K2 - £5 per person, £25 per team of 6, tickets to include wine and nibbles.
- Bicycle Treasure Hunt organised by Krackov and Caught Short. 7th July starting at the Fox and Hounds. More details later.
