The Pirate Run

Aaaarrrrrgggghhhh! Aaaarrrrrgggghhhh! Aaaarrrrrgggghhhh! Aaaarrrrrgggghhhh!

Lads, lasses, lassies and landlubbers all dressed up with cutlasses, cat o' nine tails, doubloons, jolly rogers and booty, met for a wee tippie by the landlocked shipwreck and were set loose to follow an undulating trail and count the wild flowers around Calstock lanes and woodlands. It was a fast and furious run on the longs and they waited for no-one, not even the couple of old salts (Penny Farting and Hornblower), who were riding 'Princess Winkle' two abreast and who clambered gracefully over fences only to be separated by ComeForward, the buxome wench on the poop deck. Then there were those (Do Do and Hurricane) with floppy ones and stiff ones respectively (tri-corns of course), keeping things in check as the Bumsen Burner kept the tavern warm a week ahead of time. Glanni and Hurricane were well into the pirate theme and just couldn't be held back on the pirate jokes.....they were certainly enjoying themselves..... even if nobody else was, so here are a few reminders of their favourites:

Glanni & Hurricane's Pirate Specials:

Where's the worst place for a pirate to get a pain? In his aaaaaaarrrrrrse!
Where did the Captain leave his ship? On the haaaaarrrrd!!

Where do pirates keep their jam? In a Jaaaaaarrrrrrrr!
 How do pirates get to work? In a caaaarrrrr!
 What do pirates cook their breakfast in? Laaaarrrrd!

Finally, a big welcome back to Barney on his new mobility scooter following his incident with a horse....he's now contemplating entering the next 'iron man' with all that metal work! Oh, and don't forget to go online to Just Giving at www.justgiving.com/steve-statham to sponsor Steve and crew on their Lands End to John O'Groats bike ride in aid of St Luke's Hospice, Plymouth.
