2.5 °c in Tavi, 1.5° c in Yelverton and 0°c at Burrator Dam. Add a bit of wind (not mine) and it felt like - 10°c. Some hashers are a bit like postmen- 'no I am not going to give up the shorts, and I hate dogs!' Slushy, who is renowned for his quality risk assessments, went for the shorts and no socks option – why might you ask? He purchased running shoes which were too small so he can't fit in any socks – perfect excuse last night to have worn Jan's tights – soft warm thermal layer keeping your bits warm. It should be noted that whilst loving the shorts, Slushy is not a dog hater, he is a big fan of dogs and pussies!!

Dogcatcher – having nobly laid a hash in somewhat challenging conditions, did not just stand up and say 'On On is that way' – he decided to make us hang about and gave a long winded explanation of how he had laid the hash with tomato sauce on snow, flour on mud, salt on ice, sawdust on moss, cat shit on leaves and mashed potato on roots. You can imagine what that did for our confidence. Off we set across the dam and lo- a miracle- we found red sauce showing us the way. A quick loop around and then back over the dam, then down below the dam, along the river then across the road and up to the track. Gannet thought she was the only intrepid female hasher sampling Dogcatcher's delights but no! Bumless who arrived late was bringing up the rear. Fortunately she has a nose like a bloodhound and even with the sub - zero conditions was able to sniff the sauce (or was it Dogcatcher) and follow the trail with ease.

We weaved our way around above and below the track, then plummeted down beside the pipeline waterfall and up again towards Lowery Cross.

Crossing the road was probably the most hazardous bit of the hash – the Torvill and Dean bit. Then On Home back to the dam and it was 8.25 pm – remarkable! Dogcatcher was ‘dammed’ with faint praise – ‘a surprisingly good hash’. No – it was properly good.

Back to the pub and surprise surprise – more ‘diners’ club’ than real hashers. Weak excuses were thrown around – oh I have a soft tissue injury to my knee, my partner would not lend me her tights, I didn’t want to spoil my bobble hat, ice skates are in the loft, I recently moved house and my gloves are in a box somewhere (actually Bumless still ran without the gloves).

Hurricane and the Grizzly Short Chopper were given medals for not doing their events – but doing something else. Nipply was serenaded for hitting 60 – not quite opera- but we were enthusiastic. Slushy, ever the gentleman, offered a hand (well most of a hand) to our poorly injured GM to help her off the bench. Naughty Boy needs ‘hair’ - he has some fine eyebrows – no I mean ‘hares’. April and May are looking a bit light on runs – when was the last time you laid a hash? Your hash NEEDS YOU. You could grab a virgin and show them how to do it! Glani and Nipply fancied a threesome and Bumless was surprisingly enthusiastic.

That’s enough scratching for now – don’t want to go blind.

Remember that the AGM is on Monday 23rd April at the Burrator Inn.

And hardly a mention of the Screwfix catalogue.....

You did it! A solid effort at writing a hash mag after years of avoidance. This may encourage others who have been afraid of committing pen to paper. You kept to the criteria and did not go off at a tangent and start talking about mountain biking or DIY.

Next time: This mag was a bit highbrow in parts. You referred to opera and the Screwfix catalogue. Remember your audience and its limitations.
