What a fabulous evening for the first Hash since 3rd January. The sun was still shining and the moor looked golden in the evening sunlight. How good to see 29 runners, happy smiley people, keenly waiting in the car park at Four Winds. Everybody agreed, we had all missed our regular Monday outings and, although socially distancing was observed, there was a lot of catching up to do! At 7.25 there were still no hares – perhaps they had forgotten – but nobody seemed to be bothered. No problem, Spike and Mudsucker arrived with 2 minutes to spare.

Fergie donned her Covid-inspired hat, welcomed everyone and announced lots of recent birthdays – for which there was mass singing/groaning/squealing (delete as applicable!) all in tune of course. Birthday balloons, with feet on, were given; pink for ladies, blue for men, and the recipients were told to look after them!! Glani then produced a shrivelled blue thing (was it that cold!) and tried to convince everyone it was his birthday balloon, left over from November, which he had been looking after. Naughty Boy managed to burst his on the run, on purpose perhaps??

Biff was congratulated on completing 1300 hashes and Pimp with 1100. That's very many years of Monday evenings. Tight Arse was welcomed back; he then tried to make up for the missing hashes by running the entire long, 7 miles according to Spike. !!!!! Welcome to TVH3 for He Badger, a refugee from Stannary.

A new hash name for Melissa, who, after her litter collecting efforts in Bere Alston, will henceforth be known as Womble.

Off everybody raced, the longs doing laps of the car park before setting off. Why?? I'm reliably told it was a great hash, taking in Swell Tor, King Tor and then the bog on the way back. Thank you hares.

The walkers enjoyed a stroll along the stone rows, watching the beautiful sunset and in total agreement of how lucky we are to have this countryside on our doorstep. The Hash torches streaming down the hillside from King Tor on the way back, looked like a line of fairy lights. Ahhh.

There was cake to eat at the end, although sadly the few who ran the long, long, long run missed out, as it had all been scoffed. Also sad to report that Bog Fairy has at last got her feet wet. On on!
